LOWELL RYAN PROJECTS

"Crowd Surfing" is a one-of-a-kind exhibition that explores the idea of performance and the various masks that people wear in order to navigate their lives. Peeples' distorted figures reference the caricatures that she grew up around in Orlando, where her sister was a child actress in the city's amusement parks. Through her work, she examines the rising difficulty of truly connecting with others in an age where technology dominates our lives.

Peeples' use of technology such as Procreate and Facetune allows her to manipulate images and create compositions that are both chaotic and structured. The color palette in Peeples' work is intuitive, with colors pulled from the reference photos she sources. She draws inspiration from unlikely places, rather than directly from art history or other painters, in order to maintain her personal style.

If you're ready for an adventure, then be sure to mark your calendar for June 17. The exhibition's opening reception will take place from 5-8pm, and the artist will be present to answer all of your questions. Drinks will be served, so come ready to have some fun!
